Eastern High School

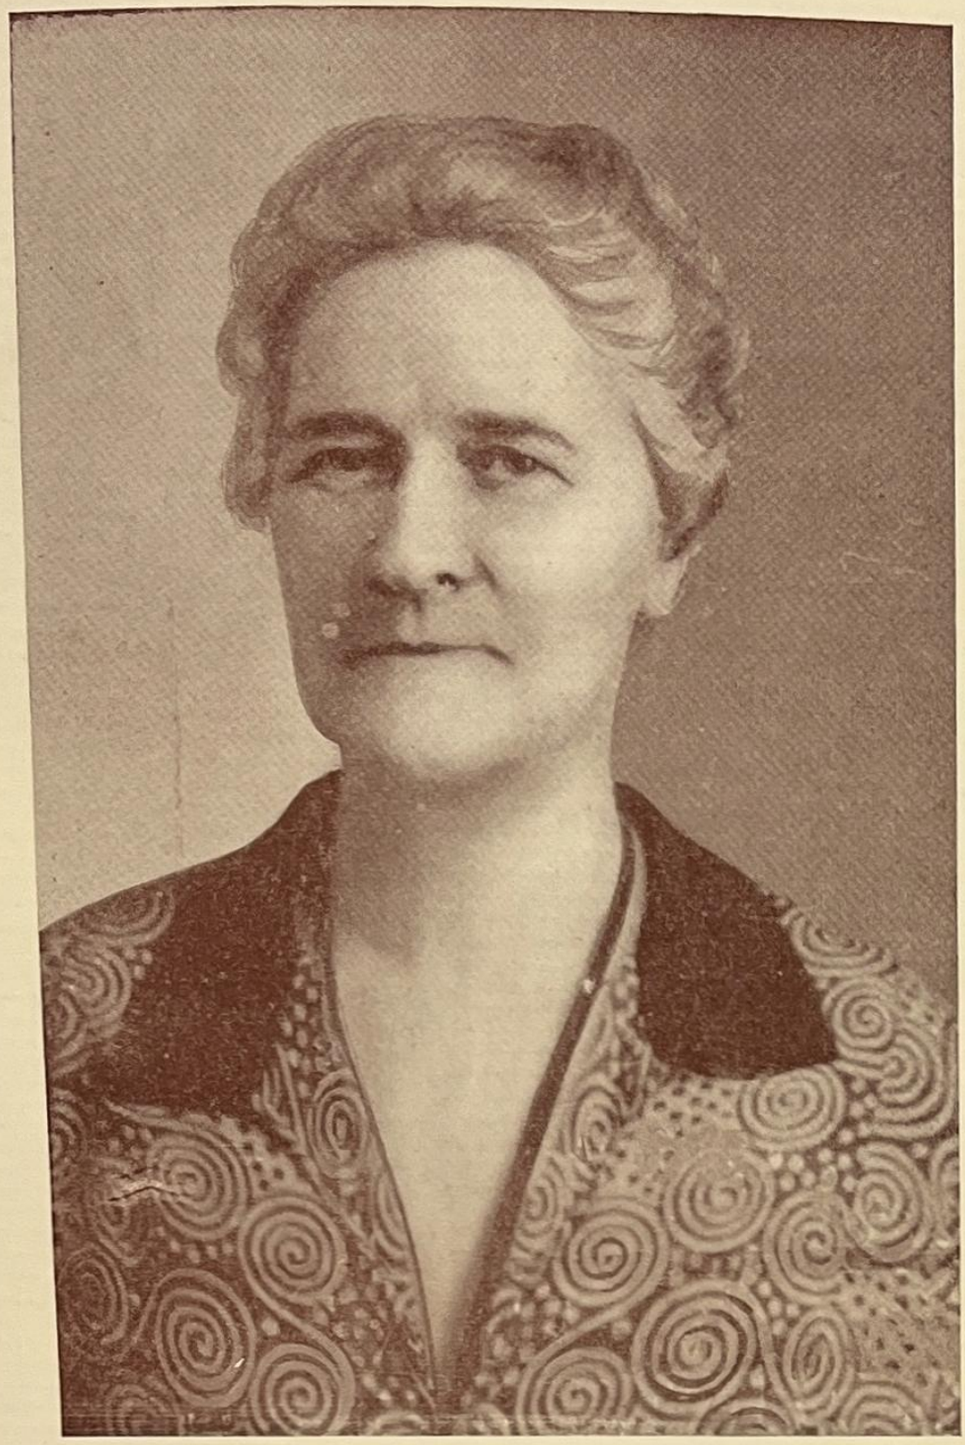
Foreword

As long as she lifts her towers in pride against the sky, as long as the Capitol watches through the silver mist, as long as the young hearts within her walls beat with a common love, so long will there live the spirit that is Eastern's.

To extend this spirit on into the future and to unite these hearts even more closely in the coming days is the purpose of this record of work well done. And so, once again is presented to Eastern her year book, The Punch and Judy, with such a purpose and such a love as its inspiration.



Miss Lewanna Wilkins

Class of 32

"A boy stood on the high-school steps,
His heart was weak within him."

No, this is not a poem. It is merely the way one feels, when entering Eastern for the first time, a Rookie.

The first thing he proceeds to do is to go to a wrong class. After this he takes at least three lunch periods. Then, deciding it is time he should go to another class he goes, trembling with fear when he looks at the numbers on the doors, finding out he is on the wrong side of the building.

The next day things are different and he feels quite at ease. Weeks go by until it is time for reports. With shaking hand he receives it. Then a wild whoop of exultation, because the card bears only checks. Next the best day of the year, promotion day. How superior he feels as he walks down the hall, for now he is an educated Rookie. Imagine it!

He is by this time acquainted with the famous people of his class. The boys gaze with adoring eyes at some foot-ball or base-ball star, upon whom they wish to model themselves. They watch Sidney Zeltzer as he races arouud the track; they go to the P. T. A. meeting and nearly lose control of themselves when Everett Lawrence walks off with a medal. The girls listens to Leah Effenbach, that marvelous piano-player, and watch Margaret Jones as she pivots across the stage. They go to the tennis games and watch Mary Peak defeat Elsa Tavenner. In the gymnasium they hold their breath as Helen Roloff and Frances McCullough perform daring feats. They go to the Freshmen vs. Sophomore game and cheer lustily if Ethel Hertz makes a basket. They listen with awe when Harry Holfberg gets up in history class to rid his mind of some weighty problem.

When Freshman days are over, he will look back with longing and regret at the happy days he spent in some one or another class. His one consolation will be that he carried himself well, and that he is now a credit to the Blue and White of Eastern.

DOROTHY E. DEAN, '32

The Class of '31

"No one will be left at Eastern, now that the class of '29 is graduating," is the bewailing cry of many Juniors and Freshmen. Evidently the students making these remarks haven't seen the class of '31, or if they have, they have taken these dignified looking individuals to be seniors.

The accomplishments of the sophomores are as numerous as those of the seniors and just as outstanding. For instance Grover Everett, that whang of a trackman, helped bring the laurels to Eastern in a recent meet. Joe Robey, Billy Wells and Kenny Wade are good at basketball. "And too divine for words," many of the femininine sex will add. Speaking of sports, why not mention McAboy in connection with baseball, and Jimmie Montague isn't half bad in football. And have you heard that John Trotter and Willie Watts are the understudies of John Barrymore? There are a number of sophomore boys in the cadets, band, and orchestra.

The boys aren't the only ones of our class that do things. Loveye Adkins can beat any boy in a tennis match. Majorie Fuller, our blond, plays tennis too, but dance? Well, no words can express her entertaining talents! Jane Hughes has even earned a letter for hiking.

The doings of our class aren't all for pleasure, because quite a few are studious. At the next honor assembly notice the outstanding number of sophomores that receive honors.

After reading of these accomplishments of the class of '31, who dares repeat the first statement? The time to say that will be two years from now, when the class of '31 is graduating.

MARGARET FOWLER, '31

THE CLASS OF '30.

The curb was a kingdom, and a red-headed tike the ruler. There was a contest on to see who could tell the biggest and best story. The boys huddled close to Reds; it was his turn.

"Keep quiet," wailed one, plaintively.

"Yeah," said one, with a trace of envy, "this ought to be good—Reds tells such big ones anyway."

The boy, with the dignity of a true monarch, squelched him with a glance, and began his story.

"Once upon a time," he began, originally, "there was a beautiful and famous high school—a very famous school. But the best thing about it was its Junior Class. They were known all over. They weren't only athletes, like most classes, they were-ah-intell-ek-shual. Why one of them, Charles Hart, won a gold medal from the Sons of the Revolution for his essay on "Virginia's Contribution to the Revolution." Lynn Elmore won an Old Glory Medal in his unit for the Flag Contest.

And could those boys and girls make speeches! Why Clara Critchfield, Charles Hart, and Leonard Minkoff placed in the school Oratorical Contest.

"Naw, they weren't sissies," he explained to a cynic, "they were big, and strong, and athletic. You should see Aubrey Martin run—well, of course his feet do go right fast, but you can feel his wind. James Ryan and Bernard Phillips are great basketball players too. Then there's Dorthy Kelso and Mary Pruitt. Those girls couldn't miss the basket if they tried. And when Dorthy hits a tennis ball—" here his eyes turned Heavenward in ecstacy, "they don't bounce up high, they whiz over the ground. She aces 'em!" he whispered hoarsely.

In the midst of the story, the rain began to spatter on their freckled noses, and make mud puddles in their hands; but it went unheeded. Here was something worth listening to!!

The tale seemed never-ending. There was Robert Grant who, as chairman, has put over the best Junior Prom ever; there was Ruth Thomasson, artist, who made so many posters to advertise school plays.

"Speaking of plays," continued Reds, "why, Gwenllian Davis, Mildred Duryee, Katherine Garrett, Sylvia Donovitz, and Newell Lusby, all Juniors, took leading parts in the Spring Play, 'Robina in Search of a Husband.'.

Juniors worked in the bank and in the business office; they--especially Allie Sandridge, Carol Wanner, Dorothy Baker, Lois Nelson, and Lois Belfield--wrote for the "Easterner."

On and on Reds went, and finally ended by telling about Bernard Smith, the football player.

"Boy" he exclaimed, "when Bernie gets the ball there's no stopping him--he knocks 'em all down!!"

And then the sun came smiling out, as though to sanction the story. After a while, someone broke the impressive silence.

"Gee, that's the best ever, but it didn't sound like a story--it seemed as if you might mean Eastern's Class of '30 we hear so much about."

"Yeah," they all agreed, "you did mean the Class of '30 didn't you, Reds?"

"Um-hmm," he grinned, "and I know somebody that belongs to that Class."

"Do you?"

"Honest!" they were incredulous.

"Sure," said Reds, "I'll show him to you sometime--he's great! They all are."

Lindbergh was forgotten. Reds was their hero now. He knew a boy of that marvelous Class of '30!

"Gee!!"

Allie Sandridge, '30

Class of '29

We, the class of '29, made ourentrance at the Eastern in September, 1925, somewhat shyly, but yet confident that our enthusiasm and determination would earry us on successfully in whatever might lie ahead.

Each, following his own desires and talents, enlisted in one or more of the schoool activities. We boasted rookie membership in cadets, orchestra, band, and all school clubs. Our names were listed on the honor roll. In athletics we find the Freshmen class distinguished itself as never before, in that Frank Miles, Billy Wood, and Ted Cappeli along with many others began to gather impetus for successful years ahead. The Freshmen girls' basketball team won the championship of the inter-high series. Likewise, in literary art, we find the names of Helen Swick, Cynthia Eldridge and Dorothy Secrest in the columns of the Easterner.

As sophomores we added more laurels to our name. In cadets, baseball, basket-ball, track, foot-ball (light weight team composed entirely of sophomores), Easterner Staff, orchestra—in fact we find 1929 well represented in every organization. It is difficult to single out the active sophomores.

The third act finds our boisterous enthusiasm gradually shading into the more serious responsibilities as juniors. It finds the lime light upon a greater number of our class. For the first time in history, our May Play, "The Patsy" was presented by separate Junior and Senior casts. The Juniors were also ably represented in the Fall Show, and the Spring Play.

Our Junior prom was voted the finest ever at Eastern. In athletics again many Juniors had prominent parts: foot-ball, Franklin Holland, Captain; base-ball, Willis Fisher, and Theodore Edwards; track, Frank Miles; tennis, Willard Beatzner, Frank Mansuy, and Steve Ingham; girls' basket-ball, Margaret Wilkinson, Mary Wiles and Lou Snyder.

Ruth Goldberg, a Junior, was one of the six Eastern finalists in the Oratorical Contest. Helen Swick and Howard Lady were selected as the two outstanding Juniors.

As the curtain rises majestically for our final act, we find that as Seniors "'29" could well carry the responsibility now entrusted to it. In every phase of school activity we are proud of our achievements.

For the first time in several years Eastern placed in both battalion and regimental drills. We have five companies striving to bring to Eastern the well deserved victory in the Competitive Drill. Our officers are Lt. Col. Miller; Majors, Craig and Zola; Capts., Grinder, Fischer, Lady, Rodger, and Riecks.

The Devitt track trophy now rests among our trophies, as a work of "'29". Billy Wood has received his fourth letter for athletic activites. Grace Haly, Mary Wiles and Alice Imlay will represent Eastern on the all-high basket-ball team Ted Cappelli stood highest in the inter-high basket-ball series.

In dramatics, we find that experience gained in previous years budded into exceptional talent. We presented our usual Fall show, Spring play, " Robina in Search of a Husband " and the May play, " Adam and Eva ". Prominent were Ronald Van Tine, Blaine Harrell, Donald Martin, Howard Lady, Dick Kelso, Myrtle Thom and Lou Snyder of the class of '29

The Eastener inaugurated its new policy as a newspaper with Donald Craig as editor, and was judged one of the best at the Columbia University Inter Scholastic Press Conference. On the staff we find among others Helen Swick, Jean Hoch, Cynthia Eldridge ,Janet Buck, Eloise Rogers, Kenneth Patterson, Ronald Van Tine, Margaret Wilkinson, Marion Fick, and Esther Hughes.

Ruth Goldberg of '29 was Eastern's Champion Orator, while Rose Cohen was runner-up.

As expectantly we made our entrance into life at Eastern, so proudly we stand in the exit, and looking back over the four years we spent amid pleasant surroundings and friendly associations, we bid to Eastern au revoir.

THE second year of the Officers' Club at Eastern has proved successful. The purpose of the club is to promote spirit in the corps. Meetings were held on the first Wednesday of each month. Their outstanding achievement was the sponsoring of the Regimental Dance. The officers were: Max Miller, president; John Riecks, vice-president; Anthony Cuozzo, secretary-treasurer; and Marshall Grinder, sergeant-at-arms.

THE cadet ushering staff was introduced into the school for the first time this year. Its first assignment was ushering at the exhibit in the Washington Building, and ushering in the stands along Pennsylvania Avenue on March 4. The staff also functioned during the Spring Play which was held on March 21 and 22.

The sixty cadets are under the supervision of Mr. Shorts and commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Max Miller, with Major Zola, assissting.

Reassurance

When petty troubles threaten my
Peace of mind---these things I think of:
A mountain lake, sparkling in the golden sunlight
Crystal clear---blue-jewel-like . . . . . .
Set deep in the mountain with tall, straight trees.

A summer sky, deeply blue,
Stretching out into boundless infinity . . . . .
A well of calm, limitless strength . . . . .

An oak tree, alone in a field . . . . .
Resisting the storms of the ages
With stark, lonely courage.

Under the student chairmanship of William Wood, the Student Council has completed a successful year. GENERAL STAFF OF THE EASTERNER

Dramatics

When the final curtain rang down on the three act comedy, "Adam Eva," a successful year of dramatics was concluded for Eastern. It saw the Spring Play, "Robina in Search of a husband" rollick along to its happy ending. It saw the laugh provoking Fall Show with its Troubadours, one act play, and operetta. It saw the re-creation of the Dramatic Club, with Bob McCormick at the head.

And the curtain settles down and the lights waver reluctantly bringing to a close a year rich in dramatic successes.

Lunch Room Staff

Efficiency is the goal that has been attained by the lunchroom staff during the past school year through the student manager and the faculty advisers. Long lines of waiting have been eliminated and quick service substituted. The individual best of each member of the staff, ice cream boys, candy girls, checkers, cashiers, and those behind the steamtables, has been given in the effort for general efficiency.

The staff is a large one including 40 girls and 12 boys. Each one deserves a vote of thanks for his or her work in the past semesters. Do you not agree? Thanks, Easternites.

Working the telephone switchboard, transcribing the letters from the principal's office, answering inquiries for lost pens, books, keys, and watches, and looking in the index to locate certain pupils and teachers comprise but a few of the duties of the office force. Under the direction of Mrs. Mull and Miss Gaines, there are usually ten or twelve students taking this elective course, which receives a half credit a semester. Ability to typewrite and take dictation are valuable aids in this work.

Bank Staff

They stand, the guardians of our finances and our play tickets, our school supplies and our used books, --a group of thirteen students who under Miss Hardy's supervision, have successfully managed the Bank and Book Exchange since last Fall.

Arthur Zahn, treasurer of the Class of '29, has served as president of the staff which includes Dorothy Donella, Helen Swick, Catherine Bixler, and Grant Simmonds, '29, and Wiley Magee, Joseph Rabbitt, Harold Swift, William Steiner, Lyndon Scates, Julia Fick, Mary Mourhess, and Blanche Widome, '30.

Girls' Clogging Class

Tapping off to an auspicious start, a group of feminine cloggers under Mr. I. B. Simon, has given promise of developing into one of the best girls' clogging classes ever turned out by Eastern. The class boasts many experienced members who have entertained Eastern before the foot lights during lunch hours, assemblies and plays.

ROSE COHEN
Secretary

The Debating Society has had a very argumentative year. One of the best debates was that on Resolved, That the President should be elected by a direct vote of the people. To keep up the interest, the debaters themselves are allowed to choose their own subjects.

At Christmas the Club gave a party, when the possibility of an existing Santa Claus was discussed, and the question of whether such a belief was harmful to a child's mind was taken up.

The Oratorical Contestants

The oratorical contest at Eastern was probably more closely contested this year than in any previous year. More interest was evinced in the contest, and there was a larger audience at the finals than usual. With three junior remaining for next year's contest, Eastern's chances for another victory appear unusually bright.

GEORGE DIDDEN
Stage Director

RONALD VAN TINE
Stage Manager

WILLIAM JENKINS
Stage Electrician

Under the able direction of George Didden, stage director, Ronald Van Tine, stage manager, and William Jenkins, stage electrician, the stage hands managed the difficult sets with an efficiency approaching that of professionals. Out of the confusion of backstage sights and sounds arose the magnificent garden set for "The Feast of the Little Lanterns." This was speedily transformed into a typical living-room scene for "Below Par," and, when next the curtain rose, a college frat house was depicted. Equally effective were the sets for "Dust of the Road," "Robina in Search of a Husband," and "Adam and Eva."

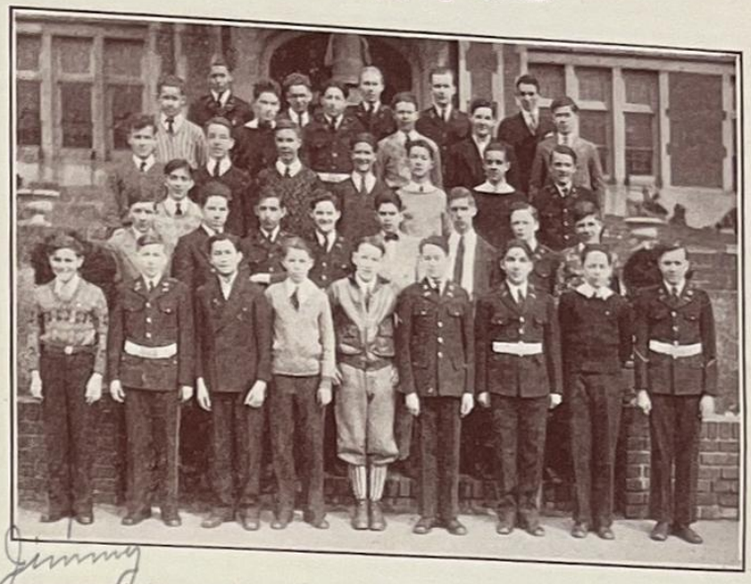
The Print Shop

Every activity, every person, indeed every desk and wastebasket, at Eastern has felt the influence of the print shop. Some sort of a print shop is a neccessity to a school of Eastern's size, but one such as ours is a luxury. Its capacity to produce work of a degree rivalling a professional shop seems unlimited.

Why? Because the Eastern High School Print Shop has a spirit, an instructor, and a standard of efficiency that is not equaled at any other school in the city. What other school prints its annual, not to speak of the regular grind of its bi-weekly newspaper, "The Easterner? None! They say "How do you do it?" And Mr. Flinn and his boys smile and keep their secret to themselves.

But the real reason back of it all, the only reason that could explain the extra-time the print staff spends in its work and its untiring efforts in spite of difficulties, is an unequaled pride in its work, and an unsurpassed love of Eastern.

Boys' Clogging Class



Boy's clogging is an Eastern group activity, unique in public high schools in this country. The first class of eight boys met in the fall of 1924. Each year has brought many new recruits to fill up the places of those who graduate. The chief aim of these boys is to fulfill a bit of advice from the late Charles W. Eliot, "Boys and girls, learn something that will give other people pleasure."

Cheer Leaders

Yes, sir! Van Tine, Mc Cormick, and Martin deserve a right rousing cheer. How could Eastern's football team have finished first (behind Tech) if it had not been for the hearty cheers which Van, Bob, and Don managed to inspire even the most sedate and sophisticated Easternites to shout. Certainly, it was not their fault that the basketball team didn't exactly win the championship!

Can you forget Bob Mc Cormick, cheering in spite of that embarrassing carbuncle on the back of his neck? Or Donald Martin's ready wit? Or Ronald Van Tine's—well, just his usual handsomeness?

We all admit it, these cheerleaders are—Jolly Good Fellows! Pos'tively Abs'lutely.

Girls Basket-Ball

Basketball was exceedingly popular with the Eastern sports enthusiasts this year. A record number of girls reported for squad practice.

Two teams, a first and second, were formed from each class. Senior 1 team, captained by Margaret Wilkinson, took the honors in the first team series, while Senior 2, led by Helen Thomas, won the second team series. In the play off, Senior 1 defeated Senior 2 for the championship.

Grace Haley, Mary Wiles, and Alice Imlay. members of the Senior 1 team, were named on the all-high team.

The girls of the Hiking Club have felt and followed it thru the '28-'29 season. About twenty-five girls have tramped each Saturday there has been a walk scheduled.

About a dozen girls have received their athletic "E"--awarded when they have hiked at least one hundred miles, and a few have been awarded stars which are given for every hundred miles after the first. Hiking letters are given under the same scholastic requirements as other athletic awards.

Girls Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club started this year with an enrollment of over sixty members. Under the guidance of Miss Wood, they sang two numbers before the meeting of the Junior Federation of Music Clubs. They also participated in a radio program in conjunction with the Boys' Glee Club. One member of the Club, Miss Francis Tucker, was one of the six to represent the District of Columbia in the Southern Music Conference at Asheville, North Carolina.

Boys Glee Club

This year the boys and girls had separate Glee Clubs; both were under the leadership of Miss Wood. The boys club was very successful from the outset. One half of the cast of the Troubadour act from the Fall Show were Glee Club boys. A quartet was also organized and proved very successful. The Club furnished numbers for the football supper, the Alumni reunion, and the Oratorical Contest finals. They also broadcast over the radio.

The Pan—Hellenic Council

The Pan—Hellenic Council, in simple language—a council composed of two representatives from each fraternity and sorority at Eastern, with the purpose to promote cooperation and understanding between the member societies and Eastern High School, and to serve as a medium of expresion between the office.

Although this year has been spent mainly in organizing, great things are expected for next year.

The officers are: George Didden, president; Lou Snyder, vice—president; Virginia Weedon, secretary; Willard Baetzner, treasurer; Sam Zola, sergeant—at—arms.

At a recent initiation, the Merrill Club took in eighteen new members. This number, combined with the fifteen girls taken in earlier in the year, will leave good material for next year's continuation of the varied social program and charitable work, in which the girls have participated this year. A mid-year's dance, an Easter tea dance, and a week-end trip to the Holiday House, were enjoyed by the Merrill girls. At Thanksgiving and Christmas, baskets were given to needy families.

Les Camarades Club

OFFICERS

Alice Harris, '29
Vice-President

Myrtle Thom, '29
Secretary

Elois Rodgers, '29
Treasurer

The Les Camarades Club has gained distinction both in school and out during the '28 --'29 term. Starting out with a mere handful of girls as a result of the graduation of '28, they enforced and re-enforced their numbers until they now have 45 members. This has made them the only Girl Reserve Club in Washington that can compete with Central's.

Social service work, inter-high activities, and happy-go-lucky times among themselves have been the features of the club this year.

The School Band

The School Band was organized in 1925 by Mr. Manoly, the director of instrumental music in the high schools. From a small band of fifteen members it has grown to a membership of thirty musicians. The band furnished music for the lower semester assemblies and the noon-hour entertainments on Tuesdays. Many of the members of the School Band belong to the Cadet Band and to the School Orchestra.

The Orchestra

The orchestra of Eastern High School has had a busy year, and has made a good showing, being especially effective with the operetta "The Feast of the Little Lanterns" at the Fall Show. Ralph Bucca is the concert master. The last semester added to the organization a viola player, William Drescher and two cello players, Joe Harrison and Frank Law. The maximum membership numbers thirty-five. Besides furnishing the music for all the school plays, commencements, and P. T. A. meetiugs, the orchestra has given programs at Powell, Stuart, and Jefferson Jr. High Schools, and played at the March meeting of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association.

Mrs. Byram directs the orchestra and Mr. Manoly assists materially.

The Easterner

Eastern's big adventure has been a success. THE EASTERNER "went over"! Now it may be said without reservation that the new bi-weekly newspaper has proven itself an institution able to stand on its own feet aud worthy to live in the place of its predecessor, the magazine.

For over thirty years THE EASTERNER served its school in magazine form. Then, when the other schools a lopted the more up to date type, the newspaper, a similar need was felt at Eastern. Finally out of a chaos of opinions and advice, speeches and votes, was born the idea that brought forth the new EASTERNER.

Not only has THE EASTERNER won a firm and lasting place for itself in the hearts of Easternites, but it has earned the respect of outsiders. In the Columbia Scholastic Press Contest held in March in competition with papers from over the entire country, THE EASTERNER was awarded the highest possible honors.

The paper is a four page newspaper. The make up has been praised by professional journalists as being above the average of even college papers. Above all else, THE EASTERNER is proud of its record of punctuality. It has NEVER been late! Yet at times in order to get the latest and most authentic news, whole pages have been held open till a few hours before the paper reached the hands of its readers. The speed and efficiency which the Print Shop has developed in handling this undertaking is exceptional.

The paper is run by a large student staff. The founder of the new form and this year's editor was Donald A. Craig, Jr. The associate editor was Helen Swick. The other positions, modeled on those of the large metropolitan dailies as far as possible, were filled excellently by Jean Hoch, Ronald Van Tine, Margaret Wilkinson, Cynthia Eldridge, Janet Buck, Dorothy Baker, Allie Sandridge, Carol Wanner, Esther Hughes, Marion Fick, Hollister Parsons, George Keckler, and members of the class in journalistic writing. Kenneth Patterson served as an original and witty cartoonist, and Donald Holmes as our able staff photographer.

The business end was managed by Howard Lady, business manager, with Francis Kaiser assistant. Advertising was exceptionally well managed by Willard Beatzner.

CLASS POEM '29

The day of days has come; the time is nigh;
We pause in retrospect, and look behind.
The dazzle of the light of present hopes,
The stirring, newly-waked, of untried wings,
(Untried, yet strong with training's inert power)
Almost, these dim the glories of the path,.....
The stepping stones,--we look behind on them.

We came to you undaunted, fearless youth,
The lure of conflict gleaming in our eyes;
The glamor of adventure beckoning on;
But now, we leave; the bright illusion's past,
And in its stead, a purpose staid and sure;
Our eagerness, a blend with wisdom's store,
Our fearlessness, combined with honor's mien.
You took us youth undaunted, yet untrained,
And made us youth incarnate! youth supreme!

Our quest was clear when first we came to you;
We sought through aureate glints and rosy lights
The rainbow trail, and at its end....the gold.
At first our feet were prone to tread the air;
We longed to rise and walk the rainbow'd path.
But soon we learn this gold for which we sought
Was but a mystic wealth; learned that true worth
Was found deep down within the firm-set earth,
That it were best to keep our feet close-bound,
To delve for treasures, real, in surer ground.
But still, our eyes are lifted far above
Where promises are written on the sky
In blends of rainbow tints and glorious hues.
Thus do we keep our feet upon the ground
While souls and hearts soar to celestial clouds.

And thus we go; our armor's buckled on;
We cannot linger; duty lies ahead.
We go, the iridescent light of Life,
As Youth has gone before—will go for aye.
Our hearts aflame, our eyes aglow with love,
We go! our faces toward the eastern sky,
Rapt in a silvery mist of memories.

Athletics

Football

EASTERN'S hopes of winning the football championship, after taking three straight games in the series, were ruined by Tech in the final by a score of 7-0. Central, Western, and Business had previously been beaten by the decisive, if not large scores of 6-0, 6-0, and 8-6.

With Captain "Billy" Wood leading, the Light Blue and White had a very successful season with outside teams, ending the year with a big "Turkey Day" victory over York High, 20-0.

It was "Mike" Kelley's first coached team at Eastern, and although Tech was better this year, the Lincoln Parkers have another chance next year with this same "Mike" Kelley tutoring, and "Tom" Nally as captain.

Looking back over the past season one could find many individual stars, but it was team work, the whole team working for one purpose, that gave Eastern one of its most successful football campaigns.

Basketball

"Whiz!" and Captain Ted Cappelli or Captain-elect Jimmy Ryan sent a long beauty whirring through the basket.

A Sanborn coached quint represented Eastern this year, and finished third. Tech, by force of habit, won the championship.

But it was in spite of fighting Ted Cappelli that Tech won. "Cap", a practically unanimous all-high choice, as usual fought everybody and everything on the court--including a water bucket and the structures to which the baskets were attached. But you can't keep a good man down; Ted was right up and at 'em!

Captain-elect Ryan surprised everybody by blossoming out as a center in one of the games and doing remarkably well at it. Jimmy made numerous pretty long shots, while "Smokey" Wood and Benjie Mc Cullough were of great value under the basket.

There were so many good players that Coach Sanborn found it difficult to select a team and a great many of the boys got into the games at various times.

Those awarded letters were: Cpt. Cappelli, Ryan, McCullough, Wood, Fisher, Robey, Noonan, Phillips, Shapiro, Zahn, Kelso, Harrell, and Morrison(Mgr.)

Track

For the first time in the history of the school Eastern won the annual inter-high track and field meet, and triumphed over Tech, the preseason favorite.

Under the direction of Coach Kelley, the track squad had one of its most successful seasons. The first victory was at the University of Virginia indoor games. Maryland Freshmen then lost a dual meet. Eastern took first honors in the Devitt inter-scholastic meet, and followed this with a win over Episcopal. In a triangular meet with Tech and Devitt, the Lincoln Parkers came out on top.

Two meets were lost during the season, one to Georgetown Freshmen and the other, the annual "C" club meet.

Baseball

After losing in football and basketball to Tech, Eastern made a decisive comeback to win the inter-high baseball championship, 15 to 8. Tech was considered the favorite at the beginning of the season, but their chances were ruined in the final.

The Lincoln Parkers won their first game from Western by a score of 8-7. Central lost the second, 9-1, and Business was crushed in the third, 29-8.

Among outside teams, Eastern defeated Swavely, Gonzaga, and Devitt twice, and closed the season by scoring over Washington and Lee High, Champions of Northern Virginia.

Seven members of the squad were awarded places on the mythical all-high teams chosen by the Washington newspapers.

We believe in girls and boys. We like to do anything we may to help their enterprises, that's one of the reasons we take this ad.

Another reason is—we think it is good business. Girls and boys are the best friends in the world. In order to make girls and boys our friends we must show ourselves friendly and we are trying to do it.

Besides, we believe we make the best Ice Cream made in this vicinity and we believe we give the best service with it.

All of these are good reasons why you should buy

A Willing Hand to Help You Into Good Positions

WHERE most young people entering business are lost is between their first position and the opportunities ahead of them. It is the longest step and many have failed to make it.

Opportunity, however, has a happy way of coming about three-fourths of the way to meet the young man or young woman who is prepared to meet her. And we try to keep in close touch with Opportunity, so that we assist our graduates to keep on the straight road to success. This is one of the most delightful and satisfying things about the training we give you.

We aim to have a position available for our graduates when they are ready. That first position may lead to promotion and a bigger salary. It usually does. But perhaps you have progressed far enough in the work to feel that you are competent to hold a better job. There does not seem to be any immediate promotion in sight, or you may not like the connection or the line and wish to make another start.

In the latter case a willing hand is ready to lend you further assistance. It is the hand of our Employment Service.

Our sole aim in conducting this Employment Service has been to assure each of our graduates of getting the best possible position—the position for which he or she is best fitted. No one else could afford to give the time we do to studying each young man and woman and helping them to plan their future.

And we are just as careful with employers. We keep close tab on what offices offer the greatest opportunities for advancement. We know the type of young people that will suit them most.

This Employment Service is a lifetime service—to be used once or a dozen times if necessary. It's a service which you can use to the utmost in securing a position that will lead you on to opportunity, to a substantial salary and congenial surroundings.

It has been the means of bringing success, happiness and independence to hundreds of graduates. It is ready to serve you.

Bulletin descriptive of course together with rate card and application blank gladly furnished.
